

THE ANSELM FUND

“THEOLOGY IS FAITH SEEKING UNDERSTANDING.”

This famous saying is attributed to Saint Anselm, an 11th century
Archbishop of Canterbury and Doctor of the Church.
For Anselm, the one who actively loves God seeks a deeper knowledge of God.

In baptism, each of us has put on the Lord Jesus Christ. Through this sacramental event, God engages each of us in the work of the Spirit to evangelize and transform society in light of the Kingdom of God proclaimed by Jesus. This is what it means to be a Christian, a disciple of Christ. All the baptized are called to live and share the Good News of the Risen Lord and deepen their understanding of the faith. God's call to Christian discipleship and ongoing conversion means that growing in the life of Christ and in our knowledge of the faith never ends. It is truly a journey of a lifetime.

From within the larger Christian community is a smaller group of persons who display particular gifts for carrying out ministries in the name of the Church. Ordained and lay ecclesial ministers exercise leadership roles of service that are essential to the life and mission of the Church. They bear responsibility for helping equip the whole community for the work of carrying out the mission of Jesus Christ, announcing to the whole world the Good News of the love and mercy of God.

As Catholics we are aware that the preparation of men for ordained ministry as priests and permanent deacons is process that involves prayer, study and practice. In a similar way, the Church recognizes that "lay persons who devote themselves permanently or temporarily to some special service of the Church are obliged to acquire the appropriate formation which is required to fulfill their function properly" (CIC, canon 231). Lay persons who undertake some special service of the Church are to have the appropriate human, spiritual, intellectual and pastoral formation needed to fulfill their responsibilities faithfully and competently.

The Diocese of Greensburg recognizes the commitment made by these lay women and men involves personal and financial sacrifice. As a result of the generosity of contributors to the Diocesan Capital Campaign, "Honoring Our Past. . . Shaping Our Future" 2000-2001, the Diocese established an endowment to support the initial and ongoing education and formation of lay ecclesial ministers. The name Anselm identifies the fund created to assist lay women and men to "acquire the appropriate formation which is required to fulfill their function properly" (CIC, canon 231).

The Anselm Fund supports diocesan parishioners enrolled in the Certificate in Pastoral Ministry program, a joint venture between the Diocese and Seton Hill University as well as those enrolled in many other educational institutions. Recognizing that it is the "whole person" who ministers, the fund is used to underwrite several annual formation events. Pathways, the diocesan adult faith formation program is also underwritten, in part, through the Anselm Fund.

The "Financial Assistance Policy for Lay Ecclesial Ministers" is directed specifically to lay women and men seeking formal academic or professional training in theology, pastoral ministry, religious education, or related field.

In Addendum II of this policy, the case of men enrolled in the Certificate in Pastoral Ministry program and concurrently accepted as aspirants in the Diocese of Greensburg Permanent Diaconate Formation program is addressed.
